

CONTRAST QUESTIONNAIRE/CONSENT

You have been referred for an examination that may involve an injection of contrast media (x-ray dye). During injection it is normal to feel a hot flush and metallic taste, both of which pass quickly. It is also possible that you could react to contrast media, however this is rare. Reactions can range from mild (such as a slight rash) to more severe (such as asthma) and in extremely rare cases, failure of circulation. If you have any further questions our doctor can discuss this with you.

Please complete the questionnaire by placing an "X" in the appropriate box, adding details where necessary and signing your consent to have the injection/examination.
